VOL. 65 CANYON, TEXAS THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1960 NO. 28

School Tour Sunday

School Open From 3-5 p. m.

People of Randall County and the surrounding area will have an opportunity to see the new high school here Sunday.

Open house will be from 3-5 p.m., tour starting at the lobby of the auditorium.

Hosting the occasion will be the school board, administrators and teachers. No formal ceremony has been arranged, according to Bob Wear, chairman of the open house committee.

Teachers and students will be located throughout the buildings and will tell guests of the various departments and facilities.

Superintendent Joe Gibson said there will be brochures available in the lobby for all guests. Included in the brochure are floor plans of the building and information concerning cost and outstanding features.

Members of the student council will act as guides and FHA members will serve refreshments in the home economics department.

Gibson points out that the Canyon school has many facilities not found in other high schools of the area. Outstanding among these is air-conditioning. Classrooms have no doors and acoustics in the building are so good that sound does not travel from room to room, he also says.

Gibson urges all persons to attend the open house and see the modern school plant now in operation.

DOORS OPEN Sunday at the new high school for a grand tour of new facilities. Shown above are doors to classroom part of plant. Tour will start at the lobby of the auditorium.

Police Car Purchased, Islands to Be Built

City Commissioners voted Tuesday night to purchase a new Plymouth automobile for police use.

Action followed opening of sealed bids. Randall Motors won the bid with $1,992.29. Other bids were: Canyon Motor Co. (Oldsmobile) $2,375.64; Imperial Chevrolet, $2,286; and Blackaby Ford, $2,089.

Bids were opended on construction of concrete islands to be built around the courthouse square and bid went to A.E. Swift of Amarillo. Islands will be constructed for $2.45 per linear foot. They will be five feet wide and six inches high.

City manager Bill York said construction will start within the next few days if weather permits.

A city park and recreation board was established in a resolution and the following members were named:

John Carlile, 2 years; H.R. Fulton, 1 year; Marvin Fite, 1 year; John Brazzil, 2 years, Mrs. Clyde Warwick, 3 years; Mrs. Tom Black, 3 years; Mrs. Bill Downing, 3 years; E.J. "Jeep" Webb, 1 year and Paul Lindsey, 2 years.

All appointments will be for three years when terms expire.

Commissioners refused to remove a western sector from the city limits as requested at an earlier meeting. They based their action on letters from the attorney general and Texas Municipal League.

Legal action is being considered in order to collect delinquent taxes from 1959.

County Budget Hearing Postponed at Meet

Hearing on the 1961 county budget was postponed at the Monday meeting of county commissioners.

County auditor, E.T. Cummings, was out of town and there were no citizens present for the hearing.

Election judges for the November 8 general election were appointed for the following precincts:

1, Mrs. W.E. Parker; (Allen M. Beene and Charles B. Johnson; 10, Herman Wicker; 11, Mrs. Jack Russell and Mrs. Davey Martin; 12, Mrs. D.C. Dodge and Mrs. J.M. Genesch; 13, Dwight High and Paul Summer; 14, John A. Mays and Marie B. Mays; 15, Aisle Darden and Dr. Clyde Morgan; 16, E.E. Plank; 17, K.L. Pond and Blaine Hufnagle.

In other action county judge Wayland Angel broke a tie vote on purchasing a calculator for the tax collector's office.

There were two bids on the machine. Remington Rand bid $551.35 and Underwood Olivetti bid $595. Tax collector Bill Money told commissioners he preferred the Underwood and Glenn Dowlen made the motion, seconded by Bailie McCormick, to buy one.

C.Y. Johnson and Clarence voted against the proposition. Angel also voted against the motion to break the tie.

The court then moved to purchase the Remington Rand.

An office in the courthouse, formerly occupied by the department of interior, was rented to a naval recruiter from Amarillo.

Due in Nov.

New telephone directories will be distributed in Canyon during the first week in November.

The directory was given to the printer early last week. It will contain between 2000 and 2200 listings for residents of Canyon, the Cleta area, and Umbarger.

City Reaffirms Stand On Bus Stop Location

Bus companies serving Canyon were informed by mail that there will be no changes in the bus stop set aside on 4th Avenue just north of the old bank building.

Action followed a meeting of the city commissioners with two bus company officials Thursday, October 13. Commissioners instructed city manager Bill York to write Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma and New Mexico Transportation bus companies stating city commissioners feel that the location set aside will best serve Canyon and offer the safest possible place.

The representative objected to the location because it requires drivers to carry freight a farther distance than other locations.

Bob Young of TNM & O pointed out the danger of leaving passengers due to the bus being out of sight. Clarence Thompson said that some type of intercom could be installed in the bus station giving passengers notice.

Claude Colston of New Mexico Transportation told the commissioners 10 persons were left behind in Friona at a similar station.

Commissioners stressed the danger of busses stopping in the middle of the street and Young pointed out an alternate bus stop at a drug store located on 4th Avenue just east of 23rd Street.

Commissioners vetoed this plan because it would tie up heavy traffic at times.

Present at the meeting were: Bill York, city manager, John Taylor, Mayor, councilmen Clarence Thompson, George Ritter and Delbert Lowe; L.D. Caldwell, chief of police, city attorneys Dale Williams and A.W. Lair, Jerry LaGrone, Roland Black and Joe Gidden.

One Injured In Car-Bus Accident

One person was injured in a car-school bus accident east of Canyon Friday afternoon.

Doyle Shipman, 18, of Happy was released Sunday from Neblett Hospital, where he was taken following the accident. No one on the bus was injured.

Driven by Bobby Phillips of Canyon, the bus was going south on Farm-to-Market road 1541. Phillips signalled for a left-hand turn, which Shipman who was also going south, apparently did not see because of a truck between the two vehicles.

As soon as he was the signal, Shipman swerved to the right and tried to stop.

The car struck the back, right-hand corner of the bus.

Parents were called and came for their children. School officials also took some children home.

The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m.

Umbarger Landmark Damaged

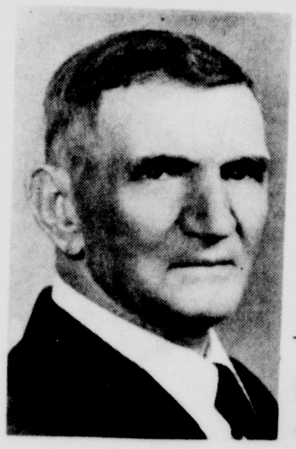

A landmark of the county, a white, two-story house in Umbarger, was damaged slightly by fire Sunday.

Canyon Volunteer Fireman, who answered the call shortly before 10 p.m. Sunday, said damage was minor to the house, located just west of the Umbarger Mercantile Store. The house was unoccupied but a family was in the process of moving in.

When Canyon firemen arrived, a trailer fire unit from Umbarger was fighting the fire.

The home was built by Joe Friemel.

CHARLES M. DOWLEN

Services in the memory of Charles M. Dowlen, a long-time resident of Randall County were conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday in LaGrone Funeral Chapel here.

Mr. Dowlen, 91, died at his residence, 2110 Fourth Avenue, at 10:45 p.m. October 17. He had been ill for some time.

Rev. C. Newton Starnes, pastor of the First Methodist Church here, officiated, assisted by Rev. H. Doyle Ragle, former Canyon pastor now serving as pastor of the First Methodist Church of Vernon.

Nephews of Mr. Dowlen served as pallbearers. They were w.t. robinson, Ray Brown, Gerald Brown, Troy Dowlen, Clever Dowlen, and Charles Dowlen.

Burial will be in Dreamland Cemetery under the direction of LaGrone Funeral Home.

Mr. Dowlen was the father of Glenn Dowlen, county commissioner from precinct 3.

Mr. Dowlen, who attended the Methodist Church, was born at Petty, Texas, January 30, 1869. He was married in Henrietta, Texas, October 30, 1901.

A retired farmer and stockman, Mr. Dowlen had lived in Randall County and Canyon since 1917. He came here from Collinsworth County.

Surviving are his wife, Birdie; one son, Glenn Dowlen of Canyon; two brothers, Sam Dowlen of Walter, Oklahoma, and Tom Dowlen of Amarillo; one sister, Mrs. Bell Holladay of Duncan Oklahoma; and three grandchildren, Glenn Wade Dowlen Jr. of New York City, George E. Dowlen of Fort Knox, Kentucky, and Marie Dowlen of Canyon.

Robbers Get 15 Years In Automobile Theft Caper

Two sailors dropped anchor for a 15-year stay in Texas State Penitentiary this week after pleading guilty on a pair of felony charges in district court here.

Sentenced by Judge Gene Jordan were Ray Rust, 18 years old, California, and Gary Hamper, 19, Eugene, Oregon.

The two were charged with robbery by assault in connection with the beating and robbery last week of J.E. Franken of Chulavista, California.

They also were charged with theft over $50 in connection with the theft of Franken's car.

Here's the story of the incident as told to sheriff L.S. Johnston by Franken.

He said he picked the boys up in California. They said they were coming to Texas and he was en route to Oklahoma to visit his mother who has been ill. He was to have let the boys out of his car at Amarillo.

Hamper had been driving for Franken and Franken had been asleep in the rear seat of the car just prior to the attack.

Franken said he was asleep when Hamper turned off Highway 60 at Canyon onto Highway 87 instead of continuing to Amarillo. He said he was rudely awakened a short time later by Rust who was bashing him in the head with a pair of broken binoculars. He said Rust was gripping the binoculars in such a manner as to use them as a pair of improvised brass knuckles.

The attack is said to have occurred about 6 miles south of Canyon on Highway 87.

Jimmy Irlbeck who lives near by said he spotted the fracas and rushed to Franken's assistance. "It looked like a case of two on one and I thought I'd just even things up." Irlbeck reported.

"They (Rust and Hamper) took off like turpentined cats before I got there," he declared. They fled in Franken's car, according to Franken's story to officers.

Irlbeck said Franken, bleeding profusely, crawled to meet him on the highway. Franken was taken to a Canyon doctor's office for treatment of lacerations of the head.

Sheriff Johnson's department went into action immediately after receiving the report. An all points bulletin flashed across the Panhandle and South Plains. Mechanized sheriff's deputies moved to seal off all possible avenues of excape.

The suspects were nabbed just outside of Tulia less than 15 minutes after the report reached Canyon.

Franken said the pair took $25 from him but Hamper returned a $5 bill.

Each of the two was sentenced to 10 years in prison on the robbery by assault charge and to 5 years on the car theft charge with the terms to run consecutively.

ROY RUST is shown here with head in hands contemplating the 15-minute crime spree that drew him a year in prison for every minute of his fruitless escapade. Rust was one of two young men sentenced as an aftermath of the robbery and beating of a California man near here last week. Rust and a companion, both AWOL from the Navy, had been riding with the victim.

School Buys Seats For Gym, Ups Substitute Pay

Canyon school board members decided Tuesday night at their regular meeting to purchase folding bleachers for one side of the new gymnasium at a cost of $4,480.

Present at the meeting were Jack Haley, president; Bob Wear, Walter Graham, Mrs. Clay Cooper, Bill Sternenberg and Otis Parker, members of the board; Joe Gibson, superintendent; and Lee Foster, school tax assessor-collector.

Hosea Foster appeared before the board and told them that the new building is covered for 80 per cent of actual value in a binder until December 31. At that time a regular policy will be made out to run along with all other school policies.

Foster told the board that the binder covers the school and in case of loss or damage an adjustment will be made.

Foster also said he will sell land in Pioneer Estates for a future school site at $200 per acre.

The board voted unanimously to increase substitute teachers' pay from $10 per day to $12 per day. Gibson reported on what other schools in the area paid substitute teachers and the salary varied from $10 to $16 per day.

Color scheme in the new auditorium was discussed and Bob Wear said he was not in favor of accepting it as is and then have to make excuses to the public.

"I think we should let the persons responsible for the colors know that we don't like them," Wear said.

He also pointed out that if it were a residence anybody would try to remedy it within reason.

The board voted unanimously to write the architects telling them of the situation.

Gibson told the board curtains for the auditorium will not be available for open house since material to be used for them was damaged in shipment.

In other action the board voted to install plastic pipe (100 pound test) for an underground watering system around the school.

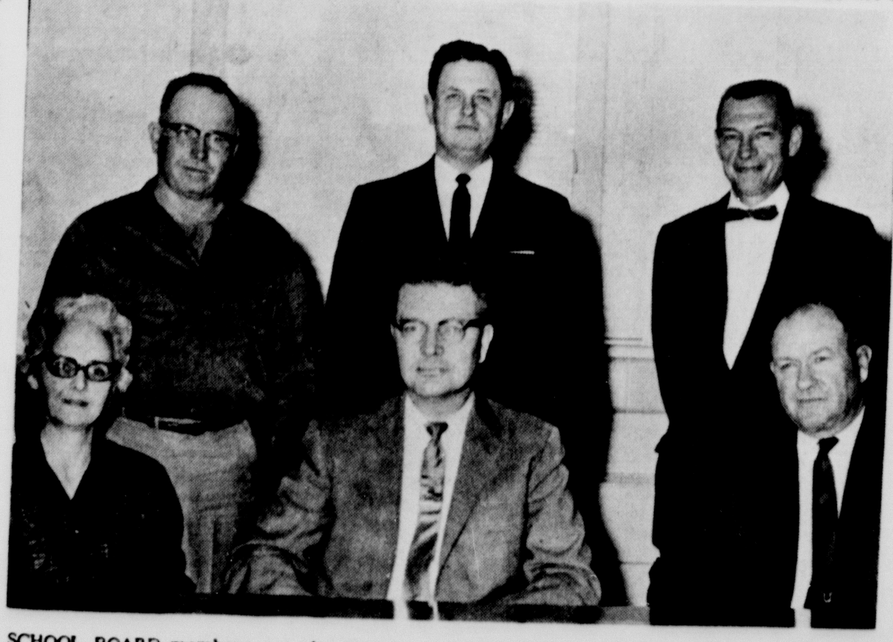

Wear asked Haley why seventh grade girls' basketball had been discontinued and Haley referred him to Gibson.

Gibson said there were no personnel for training and pointed out that the school will soon be in triple A classification where no competitive girls' basketball exists.

He also added that the program will continue if people of the community desire.

The board discussed division of insurance. In an August meeting George Blackwell, Kermit Pond and A.L. Crossland appeared and stated they would like to the insurance divided equally among qualified Canyon agencies.

No action was taken at the meeting.

Score TD In First 3 Minutes

Eagles Roll Over Friona 28-14

Canyon Eagles again hit the victory trail Friday night when they met the Friona Chiefs in Buff stadium.

The 28-14 victory was the first win for the Eagles since their first game of the season with the Slaton Tigers.

Game's first score came early in the first quarter--9 minutes and 45 seconds remained on the clock after Jerry Reynolds smashed over from the 2-yard line.

Try for conversion failed.

The Chiefs, not to be outdone in the first quarter took the kickoff and began plunging through the line for short gains. Floyd Reeve finally took the ball on the Canyon 43-yard line, scooted around end and made it all the way for the score. Their running conversion was a success and game stood at 8 for the Chiefs to 6 for the Eagles.

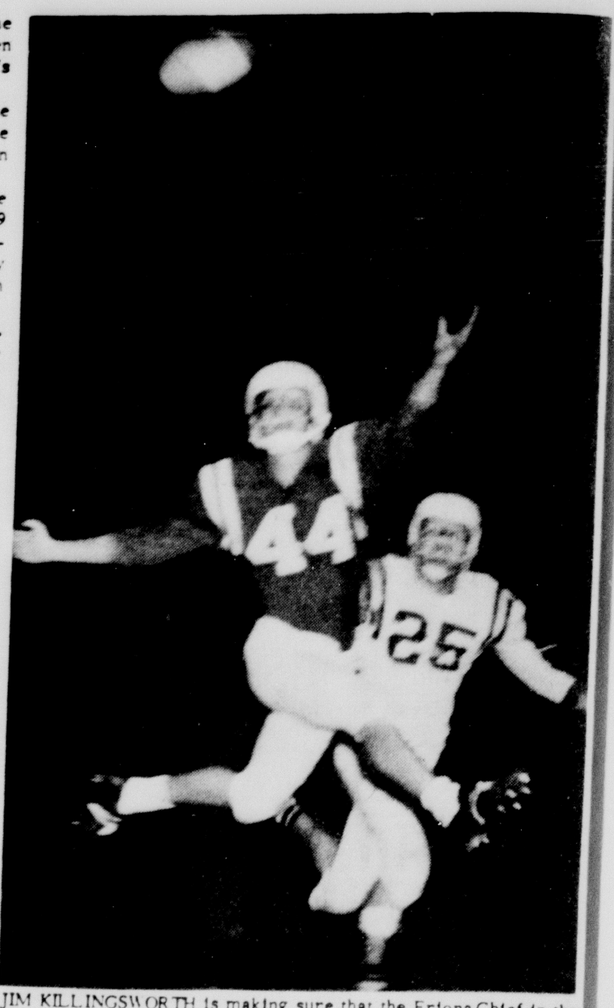

In the second quarter the game looked bad for the Eagles when Massey ran over another tally for the Chiefs from the 9 yard line. A pass for conversion failed and at the half the Chiefs led by 8 points.

Canyon kicked off to the Chiefs in the second half and the game was nip and tuck until Canyon took over the ball on the Chiefs' 20-yard line. With a series of running plays using Harry Lisle and Jerry Reynolds as carriers the Eagles racked up another touchdown. Reynolds carried the score over from the 1-yard line and Doug Ward ran the conversion over to tie the game.

In the fourth quarter Ward scored the final tally on a keeper to give the Eagles their final score. The run for the extra points was successful and the Eagles led 28-14.

In a final drive the Chiefs got caught by the final gun on the Canyon 7-yard line.

The Eagles travel to Dimmitt where they will face the Bobcats in their next bout.

JIM KILLINGSWORTH is making sure that the Friona Chief in the above photo will not get away on a long pass. The Eagles defeated the Chiefs 28-14 in a tilt here. Friday's game will be played in Dimmitt when the Eagles meet the Bobcats.

Reynolds, Sheets Players of Week

Players of the week, Jerry Reynolds and Jess Sheets, were named by the Eagle squad following the game with the Friona Chiefs.

Reynolds, a senior, is fullback for the Eagles. He is in his third year of varsity play. Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Reynolds, he is 18.

He plans on farming just as soon as he graduates.

Sheets, a junior, plays at end position. This is his first year of varsity play. Last year Sheets was a B team player.

He is the son of Mrs. Nell Sheets. College plans for Sheets are not final yet but he has an eye cast toward Texas Tech.

PLAYERS of the week, Jess Sheets and Jerry Reynolds, are shown above. They were picked for performances in game with Friona. Next Eagle bout is Friday night with the Dimmit Bobcats there.

50 Initiated Into Alpha Chi

More than 50 upperclassmen have been initiated into Alpha Chi, national honor society, at West Texas State College.

The juniors and seniors were selected because they were in the upper 10 per cent of their classes.

Jo Ann Byrd, Claude senior, will head the group as president. Other officers are Marvin Berry of Pampa, vice-president; Faye Jabin of Vernon, secretary; Patsy Weaver of Darrouzett, treasurer; and Nedra Black of Borger, reporter.

Asphalt tile is on all classroom floors. Terrazzo covers the corridors, restrooms and the cafeteria kitchen. Maple flooring is used in the gymnasium. The auditorium stage is made of oak flooring. For the shop areas, concrete is used.

Mrs. Mahle Interred At Byran

Funeral services were held at 10:30 a.m. for Mrs. Eva Mahle, 87, who died Tuesday in her home at 1506 Third Avenue, after a long illness.

Rev. Strauss Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated at the service.

The body was taken to Bryan, where another service will be conducted at 2 p.m. today (Thursday) in Memorial Funeral Chapel.

Burial will be in Bryan Cemetery.

Mrs. Mahle had been a resident of Canyon for 19 years.

She was born in Birmingham, Alabama, on March 8, 1873, and moved to Texas as a small girl. She was married to Steve Mahle in 1896 in Grimes County, Texas.

Mr. Mahle preceded her in death July 23, 1957.

The couple moved to Lubbock in 1922 and came to Canyon in 1941.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Walter Rice of Bryan and Mrs. Carl Hair of Canyon; eight sons, Clyde, Stewart, Lenton, Carl, John, Olen, all of Canyon, Claude of Bryan, and Howard of Lubbock; 14 grandchildren; and 15 great-grandchildren.

Six Churches Added To Amarillo Baptist Group

Six churches were added to the membership of Amarillo Baptist Association Tuesday in a shifting of associational alignments in this area.

Members of 33 churches and 6 missions of the association met in annual session at the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Received in membership were the First Baptist, Avenue Baptist and Temple Baptist churches of Hereford; the First Baptist Church of Friona, all from the Tierra Blanca Association. First Baptist Church of Claude transferred from Palo Duro Association, and Olsen Park Baptist Church, which had not previously affiliated with Southern Baptist Work, was received as a member church.

Reports given at the meeting indicated that 26,650 total members composed rolls of the churches, with 20,503 of these now living in the community where their membership is located. Sunday Schools have 20,577 enrolled, while 8,840 are on the Training Union rolls. Members of Brotherhood number 1623, and the Woman's Missionary Union membership totals 2989.

Total receipts for all purposes were $1,811,318.

Representing the two Canyon churches as messengers were Rev. Aaron D. Mann, Ervin Shugart, Mrs. Donnie Ruthart, Mrs. Arlen Ruthart, Mrs. W.T. Reynolds, Mrs. James Reynolds, Mrs. Keith Poole, Mrs. D.C. Lindley, Mrs. M.A. Keller, Mrs. Lynn Blewett and Mrs. Ray Bible, Calvary Baptist Church.

First Baptist Church: Dr. and Mrs. Strauss Atkinson, Bob Allford, Murray Boston, Mr. and Mrs. George Caviness, Mrs. W.B. Harris, Mrs. L.B. Lawless, Mrs. R.E. Marshall, Rev. J.W. McCulley, Mrs. H.B. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Smith Norman Stover, and Lorenzo Wirt.

Starnes Is Club Speaker

Newton Starnes, minister at the First Methodist Church, was speaker at the Tuesday meeting of Rotary Club.

Valedictorian and salutorian of the 1911 graduating class were Lilburn Thompson and Wanda McClure, respectively. Other members of the class were Harry Word, Hudson Prichard, Ruby Muldrow, Gladys Rogers, Elmer Shotwell, May McClure, and Archie Kay.

The Rev. Starnes spoke on duties of an armed forces chaplain. He is an officer in the naval reserve.

He pointed out the chaplain's duties include:

1. To serve as counselor for the men, 2. To interpret the American program to the service man, 3. To develop leadership and morale, 4. To safeguard our civilian society.

Profs To Organize

A regional section of the American Association of Physics Teachers will be organized at a meeting Saturday to be held at West Texas State College.

Dr. J.S. Urban, head of the physics department at WT, said that high school and college teachers of physics from throughout the Panhandle area interested in forming the regional association are invited. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Blue Room of the college cafeteria.

Following the organization of the group, Dr. Robert A. Howard, professor of physics and director of the neuclear reactor laboratory at the University of Oklahoma, will speak on "Van Allen Radiation Belts."

The subject deals with a little explored region of ionized particles in outer space, Dr. Urban said.

Dr. Howard, who holds the Ph.D. from Washington University, has been at Oklahoma since 1947. He was formerly a research physicist at Oak Ridge, and he has written numerous articles on his recent research on cosmic rays.

Buffs Will Clash With Cowboys

With its first win of the season tucked away, West Texas State will be gunning for its first Border Conference victory Saturday afternoon against Hardin-Simmons. It will be Homecoming for the Cowboys and the 2:00 p.m. game will be played in Abilene's New Public Schools Stadium.

Coach Joe Kerbel's squad came out of its 14-6 win over North Texas State, defending Missouri Valley Conference champ, with no new injuries and the Buffaloes figure to be in their best physical condition of the campaign Saturday. The win over North Texas in nine tries, was accomplished in 38-degree weather on a muddy field during intermittent rain and wind gusts up to 25 miles per hour.

Coach Kerbel is expected to go with the young backfield this week that he put together for the North Texas game. In an effort to add speed, Kerbel promoted Jerry Richardson, 170-pound right half, and Jim Densman, 190-pound fullback, to the starting unit. Both gave good accounts of themselves and Densman scored the first Buff touchdown on a 13-yard burst off tackle. Rounding out the backfield will be sophomore quarterback Jim Dawson and senior Ned Jolly, a 165-pound left half.

Saturday's game will pit the nation's No. 4 and sixth-ranked passing quarterbacks, according to the latest NCAA figures. Harold "Hayseed" Stephens makes the Cowboy attack go with his expert passing and is fourth nationally. Two notches back is Jim Dawson of the Buffs, who has completed 50 of 91 attempts for 438 yards and three TD's. Despite the adverse conditions Saturday, he completed five of nine attempts for 65 yards and one score.

The 33rd renewal of the WT-HSU series, which dates back to 1921, finds Hardin-Simmons way out in front by a 26-6 margin. There have been no ties. Most of the contests have been wide-open, highscoring affairs with the Cowboys' taking last year's decision, 22-0. The last West Texas victory came in 1957 at Canyon by a 39-19 count.

Band Queen nominees in 1954 were Jo Ann Mickey, June Davis and Martha Quillon. Miss Mickey was crowned queen at a band concert in February.

David Miller was named Eagle's Tale editor for the second semester of the 1953-'54 school year. The Eagle's Tale, student publication, ran weekly in the Canyon News.

Nancy Adcock was named winner of the Homemaker of Tomorrow Award in 1955. She made the highest score among Canyon girls taking the nationally-sponsored test.

Farmers Worried

"If" is still the word in grain circles this week.

IF the impending frost is not a hard one, the grain probably won't fall, as milo in the air isn't as succeptible as plants standing closer to the ground when frost hits. Actually an early freeze would deal most damage to late-planted milo.

IF the rain stops, frost holds off, and the sun shines, the grain will make. South Randall County residents were still optimistic about their milo this week, according to an elevator worker. "Of course they'd like it to dry up, but the rain is helping the wheat and grass.

A man at a Canyon elevator said that grain was falling only in isolated areas.

Grain elevator officials agreed that the grain would be ready for harvesting by the time farmers could get to their milo.

Rain in the county ranged from three and a half to seven inches, the heavier rainfall being in the southern part of the county.

Principal Takes Pride In Student Body Attitude

ONE OF the biggest boosters of Canyon High School's student body is J.E. Miller, principal of the school. Miller says the student body are "zealously protective of their new property."

Pride in the attitude of the student body ranks first on the list of J.E. Miller, principal of the new Canyon High School.

Miller says of this year's student body, "I've never seen such an example of the high quality of scholarship, citizenship and courtesy."

"The students resent anyone casting reflection on their school plant or school body and are zealously protective of their new property," he adds.

Miller explains that there was little trouble in enrollment this year in the new school. Actual enrollment was conducted in the old building where the students were issued a schedule of classes and a drawing of the new building.

"For the first couple of weeks of classes, it was necessary for the students to return to the old building for the lunch period and for classes in band and choir. But with the opening of the new part that problem was eliminated," says Miller.

Rules and regulations carried on in the old building have not been changed after moving into the new Canyon High School. Even during the weeks of transporting classes back to the old building it was not necessary to extend lunch or class periods.

The school year marks the beginning of the thirteenth year for Miller as principal of Canyon High School. Before coming to Canyon as principal, Miller worked for five years with the Technical Training Command in Lawrey Air Force Base in Denver.

Before entering the Air Force, Miller was superintendent of the Hale Center Schools for 10 years.

Miller lives with his wife at 710 22nd St. in Canyon. They have three sons, James W., a teacher in Littlefield; Charles L., teaching in Plainview; and Ralph E., serving with the Air Force in Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. Miller teaches language arts in the eighth grade in Canyon.

Miller received his bachelor and masters degrees from Texas Tech in Lubbock. He has also attended the University of Texas, John Tarlton College, Southern Methodist University and West Texas State College.

Dale Martin Wins Show Honors

Dale Martin of Tierra Blanca Stock Farm, just east of Canyon, has recently taken honors at three fairs in Texas.

Martin's young stallion, Dan Red Bull won first place in Apaloosa show at the East Texas State Fair at Tyler and second place at the Heart O Texas Fair at Waco. At Refugio Dan took first place.

Martin said the recent wins bring Dan's standing to 10 firsts 5 seconds and 1 grand champion out of 15 showings.

Martin also won grand champion cutting horse honors at Tyler on Double Five Domino. Domino placed first at Waco and took second in reining. At the Refugio show Domino was judged second in a cutting contest and took second in a Western pleasure event.

Martin rides his own cutting horse at the shows.

Guests of Mrs. C.L. Gordon-Cumming over the past weekend were Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Barker and children, Charlotte and David, all of Tripoli, Africa, and Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Barker of Plainview. Mrs. J. M. Barker is the daughter of Mrs. Gordon-Cumming.

Adolf Fetzner left Tuesday after spending a week with his brother, E.A. Oberst Sr. Mr. Fetzner's home is in Nebraska.

Canyon Superintendent Feels Teaching Is Rewarding Career

"Working with young people is my life. It's one of the most rewarding careers a man can have," remarks Joe A. Gibson, superintendent at Canyon High School.

Gibson has proved his statement time after time in his past years of working with and for young people in various communities.

In addition to teaching math and science in high schools in Abilene, Eastland and Childress, Gibson has served public schools in other various capacities. He has been football coach and athletic director, and was a coach, a principal and superintendent at the Childress school.

Gibson came to Canyon from Childress in 1952 when he began his duties as superintendent of the Canyon schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson now live at 2419 7 Ave. in Canyon. Although she is not teaching this year, Mrs. Gibson has previously taught in Amarillo, at West Texas State College and in Canyon High School.

"There haven't been any outstanding problems come out while moving into this new building," says Gibson. "Everything has moved along in a routine manner."

Gibson compares moving into the new high school building with moving into any new home. "The finishing-up takes a lot of time and effort than anticipated-but everything seems to be going along smoothly so far."

According to Gibson, enrollment has reached a new high for Canyon High School, with the present amount approximately 400 students.

"Actual enrollment took place in the old building while the furniture was being moved into the new building. Classes began in the new high school," says Gibson.

Being a superintendent of schools is an exacting business and soft-spoken Joe A. Gibson, who smiles up from the desk in his pale blue office, seems to be well equipped with experience and efficiency to perform his duties.

"I'm especially looking forward to having our visitors with us at our open house. That's October 23, from 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.." concludes Gibson.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS Joe Gibson says working with youngsters is one of the most rewarding careers a person can have. Gibson has had teaching and administrative experience in several communities.

In 1946 Canyon was faced with a critical teacher shortage.

Canyon High Campus Simplicity With Charm

Canyon High School, sprawling campus-like on the southwest side of the city, presents a picture of western simplicity, coupled with an elusive mystic charm.

The one-million dollar edifice, a frontrunner in the field of modernism, is the result of long and painstaking planning by a community who knew what it wanted and would not settle for anything else.

Initial planning came from the grassroots, so to speak. Citizens, working in committee form, studied the needs. From them came reports to the Board of Education. The Board, in complete harmony with school administrators, carried the project to the architect, William C. Townes and Associates. Successful bidder for actual construction was Floyd W. Richards and Co., Amarillo.

The new school plant consists of three buildings; the main instruction unit, the shop area, and the auditorium-cafeteria-gymnasium triad.

Neatly erected around a paved patio, the main instruction is rectangular. A continuous corridor, plus sliding door accesses to the patio, makes movement about the area easy.

The unit is air-conditioned and well lighted, both from fluorescent tubing and from skylights.

Near the entrance lobby are located the administrative offices and a special meeting room for the Board of Education. Nearby is a teacher's lounge.

Covered walkways lead from the main instruction unit to the gymnasium- auditorium- cafeteria area. These facilities plus space for the music department, are housed in arched constructions. Steel girders jut spider-like from tan brick to offer an unusual design.

To the south of the main building is the shop area. Conforming in design to the main unit, the shop is rectangular, with more natural window lighting than the other buildings.

Furniture for the new school plant is modern, very colorful, comparatively lightweight, and both practical and comfortable. Air-conditioning is available for all classrooms, main offices, cafeteria, gymnasium and the auditorium.

The new school occupies the northern part of a 32 acre tract of land owned by the Canyon Independent School District. Grass has been sewn on an extensive plot of ground to the south of the plant.

Present enrollment in the high school is 395. Personnel at the school is comprised of the superintendent, principal, counselor, attendance secretary, two office workers, 25 instructors, four maintenance personnel and four cafeteria personnel.

Students enrolled in Canyon schools in September of 1910 numbered 335 students. Of the 85 pupils in high school, 10 were 11th graders; 14 were 10th graders; 38 were 9th graders; and 23 were 8th graders.

Latin, psychology history, geometry, English and algebra were taught by the three-teacher faculty of Canyon High School in 1910.

Between 1928 and 1954, twenty-seven class pictures of 1215 students were hung on the walls of Canyon High School. A wall rack was purchased in 1955.

The 64 seniors of the class of 1955 returned from a senior trip to Pikes Peak shortly before their graduation the latter part of May.

1960 Offerings Differ From Early Curriculum

Any resemblance between the curriculum of Canyon's first school and courses now available for students in 1960 is nearly an impossibility!

Basic courses, such as reading, riting and rithmetic are still on the academic menu, however, from there on, the Canyon School District consisted of mathematics, history, English, German and Latin.

The first indication of curriculum expansion came in 1905 when minutes of a board meeting noted an order that the scale of education be raised to the eleventh grade and that diplomas be issued to all who completed that grade.

By 1911 the board voted to change to a certificate instead of a diploma, but added; "As soon as possible optional courses of study shall be offered in high school."

Music was the first major addition offered to Canyon students. In 1918 the superintendent was directed to elect a music teacher to instruct school pupils in vocal music and for the use of a room in the building.

This move was later enlarged to include band, choir, instrumental instruction and music appreciation. The band was first organized in 1933.

Changes in language offerings of the school began in 1913 when the board voted to discontinue German. Further changes came in 1914 when debate and declamation were made requisite courses and all students required to take them.

Spanish was put into the tenth and eleventh grades that year and all students had to choose between it and Latin.

Home economics, which this year signed up 111 girls, had its beginning in 1913 when the school purchased "two sewing machines for use in domestic science." The course became vocational in 1935 when the department was recognized by the state department and became eligible for Smith-Hughes.

Commercial subjects and physical education came into the curriculum in 1934. These have been greatly expanded through the years, particularly in the commercial area. Today, wide study is available in typing, shorthand and bookkeeping.

Agriculture became vocational in 1935. This fall some 80 Canyon High students are participating in agricultural and FFA activities.

Early-day science in the Canyon Schools was almost of the primitive variety. C.O. Keiser gave $50 in 1914 for the purchase of a microscope and other materials for biology. Three years later an expenditure of $60 was made on science apparatus.

Today, two fulltime instructors are swamped with the teaching of science. A third instructor, Bill Wilson of West Texas State, is offering physics under a special program sponsored by the National Science Foundation. Visiting science lecturers are slated for appearances throughout the year.

Records indicate that, possibly for a period of one or two years, Canyon High School was dropped to a junior high rating. This action was due to financial problems, overcrowding, and overload of teachers. No official record is available showing re-entry to high school standing, but it is presumed this occured around 1922.

Major and significant course additions have been added since World War II. Included are: Vocational Agriculture IV; Physics, Trigonometry, and Solid Geometry; French I and II; Advanced Woodworking; Art I, II, and III; and Spanish I and II.

All high school courses have been strengthened and made more comprehensive in character. A full year of government now is offered in place of the one-half unit formerly required in civics.

Fairview 'Breezes'

BY MRS. J. W. WESLEY

We received 2.20 inches of rain Tuesday evening.

Virgia Liston went to Tulsa, Oklahoma, Saturday morning to visit with her brother who had suffered a stroke some time past is still in critical condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Miller of Canyon and Mrs. Birdia Cook of Ackerly visited Tuesday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Wesley. Mrs. Cook is a sister of Mr. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. G.E. Wesley went to Happy Sunday and had lunch with their daughter Inez Shipman, who is cook at the 66 Cafe.

We are sorry to learn of the death of another old timer, Mrs. Allie McSpadden Bradford. She was reared in the Wayside community and married Rip Bradford.

Darla Ann Whitson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nig Whitson of Brownfield, fell while bouncing on a trampoline. She hurt her back pretty bad and has to be in bed a major part of the time. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Wesley.

Virgia Liston returned from Oklahoma Wednesday evening and reports her brother is no better.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Evans returned from Adrian Sunday evening. They shopped in Amarillo Wednesday and went back to Adrian Thursday to get their pickup and returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wesley visited a short time Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Wesley.

Mr. and Mrs. G.E. Wesley and Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Shipman left Wednesday for El Paso where they were to visit with the Shipman's daughter son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Gauthreaux, until Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley are Mrs. Gauthreaux's grandparents.

Gene Shipman was involved in a car and school bus accident Friday evening, and was confined to Neblett Hospital Friday night with a sprained knee, and bruises and cuts. No bones were broken. He is on crutches. Sherrel Selvage took him to Happy and the Bud Selvages were caring for him until his parents can get home from El Paso. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley and Mr. and Mrs. Shipman arrived home around 4 Sunday morning.

Crook Tries Again-- And Again

Determination best describes the outstanding trait of the burglar who has attempted to enter Canyon Drug on several occasions, says Riley Troth.

In his most recent attempts the burglar tried to break in the back door while Troth was upstairs working. Troth heard the burglar and tried to see who it was. By the time he had called the sheriff's department the man had drifted off into the darkness.

But, the next night he was back at the job and tried to work through a barred window. City policeman Ray Reynolds found the window before he had completed the job.

The instance Riley points out which best portrays the theif's character was the attempted tunneling job from a neighboring store.

It failed.

Don't Count On It, Today

During the early 'teens, the following item appeared in the Randall County News:

"A change has been made in the faculty of the Canyon school. O.L. Price, principal, has resigned and Lilburn Thompson has been elected to fill the vacancy.

"Mr. Thompson is a member of the senior class and is a young man of great ability."

Budding Singer Attends W T This Semester

By Verita Sanders
WT Journalism Student

"Ooooh! And to think I have a class with him!" squealed one fair coed to another when she finished listening to the recorded songs of Morris Alexander. And another West Texas State College student has embarked on a career in show business.

If all goes as planned, a new recording will be released by the Dot Recording Company within the next few months. The singer is Ronnie Dale-better known around campus as Morris Alexander.

"When the record will really be released is entirely up to what Uncle Sam decides to do with me," grins the 21-year-old senior from Anton. "I don't have too much to say in the matter."

"You see," explains quiet-spoken Morris, "it takes a lot of personal appearances to push a recording up to a profit-making basis. That's why there's a little uncertainty as to when it will be released-either in the next few weeks or in two years."

Morris has been writing his own songs since he was a freshman in high school. It was then that six similarly inclined boys combined talents and formed the combo called the Keen Teens, performing in such cities as Chicago, San Antonio, Houston, Dallas and other cities in Texas.

The combo was dissolved a year ago and the members have since scattered to pursue their individual careers.

"Gene Vincent told me about Mr. Ed McNamare of Dallas, who manages Johnny Horton, Jimmy Clanton and Connie Stevens. I went to Dallas, met Mr. McNamare and he decided to represent me," recalls Morris.

Feeling the name of Morris Alexander was a little too long McNamare suggested Ronnie Dale for a stage name, and started planning personal appearance tours for his new client.

"I toured three times with the Everly Brothers and once with Jimmy Clanton. We played in and around Texas, Baton Rouge, Florida, New Orleans, New York, Chicago, Mexico City, Los Angeles and Las Vegas," says Morris.

Morris had one recording session last November in New Orleans with the Dot Recording Company. He will return to New Orleans October 22 for another recording session. The company provides him with a professional band for these occasions.

"Cutting a record is hard work," says Morris. "After working the song up in several practice sessions, we spend about twelve hours in the actual cutting of the record."

Morris writes his own songs for recording. Since he was a freshman in high school, he has written twelve songs and sold four of them. Two of them he sold to the late Buddy Holly and the other two are the ones he has recorded himself.

"Buddy recorded my Fool's Paradise and Maybe, Baby. The titles of the songs of my recording will be The Way Our Love Should Be and Midnight Cryin' Time," says Morris.

"The real profit is not in the record sales, but in personal appearance tours," adds Morris. "The singer finances the cutting of the record and the company finances the releasing, but in personal appearances the company receives only ten per cent of the intake from a singer."

But the coeds who have heard Morris' personal recording aren't in the least concerned with profit and loss. "We like him," they chorus in unison.

MORRIS ALEXANDER, staging under the name of "Ronnie Dale" is a budding pop singer enrolled at West Texas State College. Alexander writes his own songs and sold two to the late Buddy Holly. A recording by Alexander is due for release in the near future. Title: The Way Our Love Should Be and Midnight Cryin' Time.

Elva Fronabarger Traces Changes In Canyon Schools in 30 Year Span

After teaching more than 30 years in Canyon schools, Miss Elva Fronabarger can trace many changes in the school system.

Changes ranged from school buildings to preparation of teachers, to curriculum.

She recalls that the first school she taught in was a red brick, two-story building located in the west end of town where the junior high is now.

Entrance was on the east with two rooms on either side of the wide main hall. Across a transverse hall were two more rooms. The second floor followed the same general pattern, except there was a large study hall-auditorium across the back.

Lower grades were housed on the first floor, while upper grades were on the second floor.

Miss Fronabarger says the school was "almost like a country school" since two classes shared one room.

E.F. King, who was later principal of Tyler Street Elementary School in Amarillo, was principal and superintendent when Miss Fronabarger began her service there.

Other members of the intermediate department, of which she was a member were Miss Corinne Nash, who taught language arts, and Ernest Archambeau, who taught math and physical education. Miss Fronabarger taught history and geography for the fifth, sixth, and seventh grades.

When she began teaching here in 1915, none of the teachers had a college degree, although they began receiving degrees the next summer.

By the time she retired, no teacher had less than a bachelor's degree, and most had a masters.

"Really we had an outstanding faculty, especially during the time I was principal," she said.

The school cooperated with the State of Texas in curriculum expansion. Teachers took curriculum courses at night through West Texas State College.

"The curriculum was quite formal--almost strictly textbook. There was almost no curriculum work as we know it today," she explains.

Miss Fronabarger, who is beginning her seventh year of retirement after teaching and serving as a principal in Canyon schools, says, "I enjoyed every phase of my work as I experienced it."

She taught in Poolville, near Fort Worth, and Weatherford one year each before coming to Canyon in 1915. Because of illness she look a leave of absence in 1920, and she did not return to the teaching profession until 1923, when she began two years of teaching the first grade at Canyon Grade School.

Then she moved to the West Texas State College Demonstration School for six years before going to Borger to supervise the elementary grades.

Miss Fronabarger returned to Canyon in 1934 to assume the responsibilities of principal of Canyon Elementary school and served in that capacity for 20 years.

"I thoroughly enjoyed teaching school, and I am thoroughly enjoying my retirement," she laughs.

Miss Fronabarger spent the first few years of retirement giving book reviews and telling stories for various clubs.

Soon after retirement she chose to teach a Bible class for the Business and Professional Women's Circle of the First Baptist Church.

"I really worked at it," she said.

She expanded her library to include reference works that would aid her in teaching the class.

Miss Fronabarger belongs to Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teachers sorority, the Canyon branch of the American Association of University Women, and a Retired Teachers Club in Amarillo.

"Unlike a few of my friends, I have not found I didn't have anything to do. Instead, I have had to make choices among many nice things," she says.

Because of illness in her family, she has not been able to leave her home on Fourth Avenue much, but she calls and writes others in town who do not get around very much.

Her hobby is reading, and she has a wide range of interests. She particularly likes travel books.

Canyon HD Sets Meeting Friday

The home of Mrs. Jonnie Weldert will be the site of Friday's meeting of the Canyon Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Bobbie Williams will present the program on French doughnuts.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Bridal Courtesy Honors Miss Nancy McCormick

A pre-nuptial shower for Nancy McCormick, bride-elect of Donald Gene Williams of Tahoka, was given October 13 in the home of Mrs. Robert P. Jarrett Jr.

Miss McCormick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bailie McCormick of Canyon, and Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. an Mrs. Carl Williams of Tahoka.

The serving table, covered with a white linen table cloth, was centered with an arrangement of large orchid China and pom-pom chrysanthemums, accented by purple satin ribbon hearts and candles in votive cups.

Orchid snowballs, nuts, coffee, and tea were served.

Mrs. T.W. Collins and Mrs. M.W. Mitchell, aunt of the bride-to-be, presided at the serving table.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Gene Rogers at the piano and Mrs. Lee Foster at the organ.

Miss Nancy Wiggins and Miss Sally Foster registered the 66 guests who called during the evening. Miss Cathy Morris helped with the gifts.

Hostesses were Mrs. Robert P. Jarrett, Jr., Mrs. Hazel Walsh, Mrs. Florene Moore, Mrs. J.B. Roberts, Mrs. Glenn Dowlen, Mrs. James E. Miller, Mrs. Ted Kelley, Mrs. L.F. Brasher, Mrs. Lonnie Byars, Mrs. Milton Morris, Mrs. Fred Latham, Mrs. Henry Wiggins, Mrs. Ralph Ruthart, and Mrs. Erv Michael.

Moore, Harper Address Junior Woman's Book Club

Mrs. Ples Harper and Miss Helen White Moore were guest speakers for the Junior Woman's Book Club as it met Friday in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Introduced by Mrs. Manley Bryan, Mrs. Harper and Miss Moore followed the joint topic of "How to Make Music and Literature More Meaningful to a Child."

It is not enough for children to hear music on radio, television, and records, Mrs. Harper said. She stressed the importance of their attending concerts and taking part in musical activities.

In answer to questions, she said there is no set age for children to begin piano lessons, but they should begin lessons when their interest is highest. She said this peak of interest is usually reached when the child is in the third grade.

Mrs. Harper said playing the piano was a good outlet for frustrations.

Miss Moore told the group that fairy tales and adventure stories were the favorites of most children.

She also pointed out that no child ccould get false values by reading good literature as he could from poor literature. She recommended two books "The Good Master" and "Under the Tent of the Sky" as being typical of the style she meant.

About 25 members were present for the club's guest day. Refreshments of cookies and spiced tea were served from a table centered with chrysanthemums.

Heart Association Approves Plans

Randall County Heart Association held a board meeting last night in the office of LaGrone Funeral Chapel.

Mrs. Toni Dewey, president, said the meeting would include approval of program plans for the coming year and of plans for Heart Sunday, to be held in February.

A total of $500 was expected to be sent to research funds.

Election of officers was also planned.

WSCS Circle To Be Organized

An organizational meeting for a Woman's Society of Christian Service circle will be held tonight (Thursday) in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Perkins, 2409 Ninth Avenue.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Designed for persons who cannot attend meetings during the daytime, the circle will select various officers and will decide on a meeting day and time.

It will be affiliated with the First Methodist Church.

Mothers-in-Law Hold Luncheon, Quilting Bee

Canyon Mother-in-Law Club met for a covered dish luncheon and quilting bee October 14 in the home of Mrs. W.J. Stewart.

Members quilted a quilt for some needy person.

Mrs. G.B. Combs presided at the business meeting. Mrs. W.S. Wharton gave the devotional, and Mrs. H.C. Gentry led the prayer. Mrs. Mary Burtz was pianist, with Mrs. R. D. Lowry serving as song leader.

Mrs. C.W. Dunn, program chairman, gave a quiz on "Do You Know Your Beans?" Mrs. Laura B. Hutton gave a reading entitled "Ten Commandments of Life."

Each member read a joke.

The business session over, everyone gathered around the piano to sing favorite songs. E.C. Hawes and E. Gidden, club guests, assisted with singing.

Next meeting will be November 10 in the home of Mrs. T. V. Slack, 2108 Sixth Avenue, with Mrs. T.T. Rain, Mrs. I. W. Wester, Mrs. J.N. Seay, and Mrs. Hattie Brazil as cohostesses.

PTA to Show Film Tonight

A film entitled "Washington at Work" will be shown at tonight's meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association, to be held at 7:45 p.m. in the Canyon High School auditorium.

Produced by Kiplinger, the film shows the work of federal committees and agencies.

A Founders' Day program will also be included, as well as introduction of new teachers.

Refreshments will be served at a social hour following the meeting.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO Women

SOCIETY NOTES

One of the highlights of the Canyon's school year will be the open house of Canyon High School, scheduled Sunday from 3 until 5 p.m.

Some of the ex-students who will tour the buildings will probably have the feeling of being born 30 years too soon. They will remember the idosyncrasies of the old high school building.

There was the gray paint on the hall floor and stairs--the paint that started so shiny and was gradually worn away in paths of scuffing feet.

Then there was the first floor hall, known affectionately as "lover's lane."

Couples talked casually as they loafed beside lockers.

Next came the assemblies, with the first row of the seats occupied by the senior class boys.

Finally there was the slight trembling of the top floors when a wind blew hard on a spring day.

On second thought maybe the ex-students were not born too soon after all.

Woman's Book Club Discusses Egypt

"Egypt was the topic discussed by the Woman's Book Club in its meeting October 12 in the Little House of Fellowship at the All Saints' Episcopal Church.

Miss Edna Graham spoke on the ancient history through modern times in Egypt and showed pictures and souvenirs of her trips to Egypt. Mrs. Charles Harter discussed the more recent history of Egypt, now known as the United Arab Republic.

In the business session, Mrs. W.C. Hubbard was accepted as a new member. Mrs. Huelyn Laycock and Mrs. Alma Cole of Rule were guests.

Mrs. Rex Hull of Memphis visited Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger McFarren. Mrs. Hull is Mrs. McFarren's mother.

Around The Down

Mr. and Mrs. Lem S. Fisher spent several days in Denver visiting their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Don White and sons. They traveled by Cimarron Canyon to view the aspens, which they reported to be "really beautiful."

Mr. and Mrs. Cohen Penick Sr. had as guests in their home Thursday Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts of Terrell. They are childhood friends.

Mrs. Alma Cole of Rule is visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. C.A. Murray, for a week or ten days.

Visiting in the L.K. Bolton home over the weekend were Mrs. James Kauffman and children of Lamesa. Mrs. Kauffman's oldest son Britt is spending this week with his grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barclay spent the weekend in Erick, Oklahoma, visiting her mother, Mrs. J.J. Yell, who is hospitalized there.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dugan attended the wedding of Miss Gelika Moreland and Harry Montgomery at the Victory Baptist Church in Amarillo Saturday evening.

Guests in the E.A. Michael and Gene Root homes were Mr. and Mrs. William Michael of Omaha, Nebraska.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. F.M. Blackburn and Tommy last week were Mrs. Blackburn's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. O.S. Springer and Rodney of Akron, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Holcomb and Glen attended the homecoming football game at Lockney Friday night, and visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C.R. Clark. They also visited with his sister, Mrs. Claude Brown and family. Terry Clark, Mrs. Holcomb's brother who lives with the Holcombs, also visited at Lockney with his parents.

Guests in the home of the Jim Carters were their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Davidson and daughters Karen and Paula from Arlington. They came Thursday and left Sunday.

3 Canyonites Attend DAR

Three Canyon women attended a meeting of the Esther McCrory Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution in Amarillo October 10.

Attending the session, held in the home of Mrs. Wilida Neely, were Mrs. T.B. McCarter, Mrs. Clyde Warwick, and Mrs. Joseph Findley.

Mrs. John Merchant discussed responsibilities of Women as citizens. Mrs. Merchant is acting vice-president of the Amarillo Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Kuhlman Guest Speaker

Guest speaker for the Palo Duro-Rusk Home Demonstration Club was Mrs. Alvin Kuhlman, who spoke on "Becoming a Citizen."

The club met October 11 in the home of Mrs. C.V. Wilkinson.

Mrs. Kuhlman, a native of East Germany, outlined the steps she took in becoming a citizen of the United States.

Karen Petitt, who, along with her family, returned recently from Germany, sang some songs in German.

A Christmas party was planned for December 13 in the home of Mrs. Herbert Gersden.

Next meeting will be October 25 in the home of Mrs. Edd Reynolds, with Mrs. Althea Douglas as hostess.

School District Grows From 5 To 672.5 Sections in 57 Years

Canyon, always known as a stronghold of education, continues to point the way. However, silent thanks should go to early school pioneers who, though enduring hardships, laid the groundwork for what is present today.

The Canyon Independent School District celebrates its 57th birthday this fall, for it was in 1903 that it was voted into existence.

In area, it covered five square miles, with the town section in the center. Five teachers and 184 students answered the opening school bell. Those five teachers signed to instruct for a total of $2,835.

This week, on the eve of an Open House for a new one million dollar high school, the Canyon Independent School District finds itself a young educational giant.

The five square miles have mushroomed into 672.5 square miles. The instructional staff of five now has grown to one of 74. Instead of 184 students facing a new year, 1530 students are currently on the rolls. The annual payroll of $2,835 is dwarfed by a teacher payroll of $372,714, and a total school payroll of $450,000.

Also, in 1903, taxpayers levyed a tax support program. Evaluation at that time was $430,616. Today, school tax evaluation in the School District is $21,214,200.

School financing was a problem, even in the early history of Canyon schools. Still in its first year of being, the district voted a $12,000 bond issue for construction of a new brick building. The vote was 70 to 3. However, by 1910 the school was so crowded that an old wooden schoolhouse had to be leased to care for the overflow. This necessitated another $10,000 bond.

Twelve years later, so large had the number of scholastics grown, that there was need for a separate high school building. The present Canyon Junior High was then erected and furnished from two bond issues of $100,000 in 1922 and $15,000 in 1923.

Meanwhile, increasing enrollment in the elementary grades demanded expansion. Bonds of $65,000 were voted in 1927 to finance the wrecking of the original school building and the construction of the present building located just to the south of the old high school.

Several bond issues have come and gone since 1927. One of the largest was for the construction of Canyon Elementary, a project completed in 1955.

Today, the total investment in the Canyon Independent School District stands at $2,398,797 in buildings and equipment, with an additional $75,000 counted in transportation.

At present the community's bonded school indebtedness is $1,544,000.

Only one other school, outside Amarillo, is operating in Randall County. This school is at Umbarger. The Canyon District is composed of: Stone, Zita, Palo Duro, Jowell, Garrison, Tierra, Blanca, Lakeside, Trigg, Rusk, Ralph, Pierce, Hudson, Connelly, Wilson, and Johnson districts. These areas were consolidated in 1947-48.

Study Club Initiates 5

Initiation of five new members highlighted a recent meeting of the Canyon Study Club in the home of Mrs. John Taulman.

The initiation, which preceded the business meeting, was conducted by the president, Mrs. Floyd Langford. Inducted as new members were Mrs. Dick Foster, Mrs. Elton Cox, Mrs. Walter Cranmer, Mrs. Lynn Williams, and Mrs. Charles Williams.

Mrs. Farrell Devenport fine arts chairman, gave a summary of the book "Spoon River Anthology" by Edgar Lee Masters.

Club members will sell fruit cakes. In other business, a committee was appointed to complete plans for a "get out and vote" campaign. The magazine "Humpty Dumpty" will be placed in Neblett Hospital waiting room by the club.

David Matthis, Randall County Democratic chairman, was guest speaker. His topic was "Difficulties of Voting."

Co-hostess was Mrs. Dan Gaylor. Seventeen members were present.

Club Discusses Kennedy, Nixon

Presidential nominees of both the Democratic and Republican parties were discussed before the Sue Hite Club.

The club met October 10 in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Mrs. Clay Cooper spoke on John Kennedy, Democratic nominee and Mrs. E.E. Perkins discussed Richard M. Nixon, Republican nominee.

Fulton Gives Program For Garden Club

"Japanese Floral Art" was the topic of discussion when the Canyon Garden Club met October 13 in the home of Dr. Leta Boswell.

H.R. Fulton Jr. presented the discussion and illustrations that made up the program.

Light refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Frank Mr. and Mrs. K.E. Hines, Mrs. A.H. Prichard, Mrs. C.R. Burrow, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Black, Mrs. Alfred Bellah.

Mrs. Mark Foster, Mrs. Clyde Warwick, Mrs. S. B. Loudder, Mrs. Ed Weeks, Mrs. Levi Cole, Mrs. Jeannette, Robbins, Mrs. R.A. Neblett, Mrs. Joe Thompson, and Mrs. C.W. Samples.

A club guest was Mrs. J.W. Norvel.

Next meeting will be November 10 in the W.A. Warren home, with Mrs. W.R. Crow in charge of the program on dry arrangements.

A.W. Lair To Address Kiwanis Club

Kiwanis Club of Canyon has scheduled A.W. Lair as its speaker at its regular meeting on Friday, at the American Legion Hall.

Lair's discussion of the four Constitutional Amendments coming up for the voters' decision on November 8th is presented under the auspices of the Junior Bar Association.

Lair is the District Attorney and his talk will be based on the fact that in a national election year, all voters are concerned with and well appraised of the national issues while issues that matter to the state and local interests tend to be ignored.

Since it is natural for voters to say "No" to issues they do not fully understand, these talks are being given to community and civic clubs throughout the state to insure that the public will be well informed on election day.

Amendments 1 and 2 are of a non-controversial nature. Amendment 1 pertains to the establishment of a hospital district in each of three counties, Lamar, Hidalgo, and Comanche. Amendment 2 has to do with the payment of interest on bonds issued for the purchase of land by war veterans.

Amendment 3 will be of interest to voters all over the state since it involves the readjustment of salaries for State Legislators.

Amendment 4 has attracted considerable interest throughout the state

Prayer Groups Will Meet Before Revival

Methodist prayer groups will continue to meet for two more weeks prior to the church's fall revival.

Twenty groups have been meeting one night each week for two weeks at various homes.

Besides the groups composed of families, prayer meetings are being held by members of the choirs of the churches, the Methodist Youth Fellowship, and the Wesley Foundation.

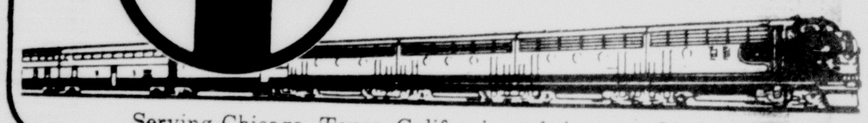

In all areas of Canyon High School are found hot water unit ventilators.

Team Spirit Of 1912 Very Confident

Was Canyon High's baseball team over-confident in 1912? It would be interesting to find out the result of the following game announcement:

Umbarger, who has been bragging about having such a fast baseball team, has matched a game with the high school team for Saturday. Umbarger claims they haven't lost a game, but if they wish to keep up this record, they had better call off this one."

Where Did They Go?

Whatever happened to Canyon High's Ex-Student Association? Reports from early years indicate a strong organization at one time.

Following is an excerpt from coverage of an Ex-Student Association banquet held in 1910, listing speakers for the various graduated classes:

Vera O'Dell, '02; Columbia Redfearn, '03; Robert Campbell, '04; J.P. Hicks, '05; James Lockeridge, '06; Avis Baird, '07; Susan Betchel, '08; Zina Henson, '09; and Sallie King, '10.

Marcel Rhoades To Be Honored

Marcel E. Rhoads, a Canyon resident and employee of Southwestern Public Service Company, will receive a 10-year service award at the 12th annual dinner honoring the company's Panhandle Division employees at 7 p.m. October 21 at the Amarillo Country Club.

The award will be presented by A.R. Watson, executive vice-president of the company.

The 61 employees being honored this year have a combined service of 865 years. The top award, 35 years service, goes to Lex R. Ray and Thomas Wixom of Amarillo.

A five-day teachers' institute for teachers of Randall County was held in September of 1910. Twenty-five teachers attended. For many years a similiar institute was held in the county.

Home Economics Department Features Modern Equipment

PROJECTS in the home economics department, in addition to the basic fundamentals of housekeeping, include such things as designing attractive centerpieces as the one shown above. Linda Brown and Joy Harter are working on the arrangement.

"I think one of the most important aims a teacher of homemaking can have is the teaching of standards and values." So said Mrs. Clara B. Long, as she served coffee and rolls in the living room of the Home Economics unit.

Mrs. Long enlarged on this statement with a personal story about some of her students. "It is important for a student to know how to do things around the home, but it is even more important, I think, to be able to evaluate the activity in the proper light."

Mrs. Long, along with Mrs. Guylene Stover, is in charge of directing studies of 111 girls currently taking home economics in Canyon High. New quarters, consisting of a living room, clothing lab, foods lab, storage closets, and powder room greatly aid them in their teaching duties.

Instruction in the three-year plan of study covers many important areas of home life. Included among the topics covered in clothing study are construction, budgeting, consumer education, personal studies (Building Your Life) and clothing care and management.

Nutrition, foods planning and preparation, food conservation, marketing, budgeting, and money management are areas covered in foods lab instruction.

"On this topic of money management," said Mrs. Long, "Some amazing statistics have come concerning it. Did you know that a high percentage of people in mental institutions are because of the frustrations of trying to 'keep up with the joneses?' "

Equipment in the foods lab at Canyon High is of the latest design and is supplied in ample numbers. One area is devoted to food preparation. Four work units, designed to accomodate four girls at each, are equipped with electric ranges, cabinet-top working areas, overhead cabinets, double sinks, and underneath storage space.

Two refrigerators accomodates foods-in-waiting and one large freezer is available. "We couldn't live without our freezer," exclaimed Mrs. Long. "You know the girls prepare foods during one period, then must freeze it until the next day when it is cooked."

A corner of the foods lab has been built into a special demonstration area, with the latest facilities incorporated.

Another corner of the foods lab houses a laundry unit, complete with a new combination laundry-dryer and an ironer.

"Girls love activity, like cooking, sewing and planning," said Mrs. Long. Most of the girls accept the responsibility readily when given the freedom which goes along with such things."

In the clothing lab activity centers around the twelve sewing machines and the one Slant-O-Matic (for fancy sewing). Near the front of the lab is a pressing area, with special equipment designed to show techniques of pressing arms, straight surfaces, seams and curved areas.

Each girl is furnished with a tote drawer in which to keep materials. Five work tables, with chairs, complete the sewing unit.

Near the rear of the sewing lab is a bed, which comes into use during instruction in home nursing and first aid.

Of special interest in the home economics instruction offered at Canyon High are the adult classes. Held on scheduled nights, study mainly is concentrated around clothing and sewing.

Occupying central location, appropriate with its activity, is the living room of the home ec unit. Appointed tastefully, the living room is used for both class and public entertaining, combining instruction with practical experience.

"FHA is an integral part of our home economics program," Mrs. Long added. "Most of the girls belong to the organization and all are very enthusiastic. In fact, we have 16 girls trying this year for State degrees. You know, last year we had six girls make it."

Mrs. Long and Mrs. Stover meet Smith-Hughes requirements and possess vocational certificates.

Canyon school debate topic in 1913: Resolved--That the same restrictions should be thrown around the life of a boy that are thrown around the life of a girl.

Canyon High School Prayer

All of us who have entered the fellowship of Canyon High School thank Thee, O God, for our many blessings. May we keep a good place in our hearts for every friend we have found in the classroom, on the campus, or on the field of play. May the interest and patience of our teachers toward us be like springs of hope that give us a strong faith in our best possible selves. May the knowledge we gain here be wholesome seed planted in rich soil.

Help us to keep keen in our minds the realization that our parents have sacrificed much that this school may flourish, and our lives be made more abundant.

Grant that in humility of spirit all of us may ever look unto Thee, who art The Fountain of all Wisdom; in the Master's Name, Amen.

In 1911 Canyon schools changed from the grade system to the credit system. Under the grade system, if a student failed two subjects, he failed the entire year and had to take all subjects again. Under the credit system, a student retains all passing grades.

Canyon High School Creed

I believe in Canyon High School as a place of opportunity. I believe in its reputation for honest work fair play, and sincere interest in the youth of the community. I believe in the idea proclaimed in its motto, "Knowledge, Loyalty, Honor, Courage, Service." I believe in its worthy ideals: clean sportsmanship, true friendliness and respect for others, obedience to law, and cordial cooperation with the faculty, administration, and student body.

I, therefore, believe it is my duty to my school to support it loyally and to defend it against all opposition.

Flourescent lighting is used throughout Canyon's new school plant.

KEEPING UP WITH THE ARTS

Mary Caballero

The train that we mentioned last week is evidently out of the musical circles now. I called the station to ask about it and I was told that the first train through Canyon was at 10:30 in the morning and the trains were not allowed to play around with whistles. It was suggested that what I heard was probably a truck. A whistling truck??? But then I have found that it doesn't pay to argue a point, so let's say I hear a whistling truck! Hope you heard it, too.

Once again I feel the importance of passing on a few definitions of words that we read quite often and see misspelled quite a few times. These definitions are from the Encyclopedia of Painting.

Several of the words defined here, describe types of painting represented in the present show by Mrs. Hazel Wiseman and Cecile Foster. This show is being exhibited in the West Texas Fine Arts Building.

Encaustic painting...An important method of painting by the ancients. The pigments were mixed with a refined beeswax binder, and they were applied by means of heat.

The writings of the ancients suggested that there were three methods: (1) Panels of wood were painted by brush and by a heated cauterium, a spoonlike instrument for spreading wax; (2) ivory and marble were painted by incising the design with a cestrum or burin and the color laid on in heated wax; (3) wood, linen, or marble could also be painted with a bruxh. There is evidence that the process originated in Egypt.

Tempera...One of the earliest painting media, used in Egypt, Mesopotamia, and Crete, a mixture of ground pigment and an albuminous, gelatinous or colloidal medium, most often egg, either yolk and white or only yolk. Though soluble in water, it is a comparatively permanent medium which presents certain limitations. It is opaque and dries rapidly. It was used throughout the medieval period as well as the Renaissance for paintings executed on wooden panels and treated with gesso.

Gesso... Much painting, especially in ancient and medieval times, was carried out on a ground prepared with gesso (plaster of Paris). This was particularly true of painting in the middle ages when gesso (white chalk in glue) was applied to the surface of a carefully selected wooden panel in several smoothed coats, producing an excellent white mat surface for tempera pigments. Gesso may also be built up and modeled before painted or guilded, as in panels of the Spanish, Gothic schools.

Glaze...Applies to thin layers or films of either translucent or opaque color used to build up forms in painting. It is the very essence of the oil painting technique in which it affords an important method of control for the amount of light that is permitted to come through successive layers or glazes of paint. It is this factor that gives oil painting its special characteristics of depth and richness.

Opaque... Not letting light pass through; not transparent.

Transparent... Transmitting light rays so that the objects on the other side may be distinctly seen.

So many of the artists of today are using many of the ancient forms of art but unless we know a few of the terms, we find we are incapable of understanding the history of the many methods used.

.....

RECORD RAMBLINGS

The final consideration in this little discourse on hi-fidelity components is the other two sources of sound; radio and tape. The better speakers and amplifiers will greatly improve regular AM radio quality.

There is a limit to the quality for AM stations usually broadcast up to a frequency of some 5000 to 7000. This is considerably below the range frequency, and do it with much less siderably below the range of the ears and restricts the fidelity. So far as good music, FM is much preferred. A good station can broadcast the full range frequency, and do it with much less static and extraneous noise. Most FM stations tend to specialize in better music. The Amarillo station has had its good and bad times. Most of its music is broadcast from tapes. Some months the tapes are good, and some they are terrible. There is an hour or more of classical music every night, and most of the time the popular and very light classical tunes are much better than can be obtained on the AM stations of the area.

Some areas have stereophonic FM-AM music, with the AM stations broadcasting one channel of the music and the FM the other. This was tried a few months ago in Amarillo without much response. A more promising prospect for the future is FM multiplex. It is possible for a FM station to broadcast two channels of music on its assigned frequency. A FM receiver with a multiplex adapter can pick up both channels and get a true high-fidelity stereophonic reproduction. The appropriate government bureau is supposed to decide sometime this year which of two or three competing systems will be adopted. It may then be hoped that high class stereo will become gradually available over the FM stations.

The component AM and FM tuners are generally of much higher quality and give a better sound than the regular "store bought" radio. A good FM tuner will have a recepticle into which the multiplex attachment can be inserted when it is needed. It is probably well to buy a stereo FM-AM tuner consisting of both bands in the same chassis, but separated so that both can be played at the same time for stereo AM-FM broadcasts when they are available. The tuners can also be bought in a single unit with the stereo preamplifier and power amplifiers included. As mentioned before, this is convenient and makes a nice looking setup, but is not as flexible. Nearly all the good amplifier and preamplifier manufacturers make good tuners. AM, and particularly FM, are more valuable in a metropolitan center with several first class stations, but I have had many hours of enjoyment from local FM. Without much doubt, the number and quality of local FM stations must increase in the future.

Tape is in many ways the most difficult of the sound sources. Stereo tapes have been available for several years, but the high price prevented wide acceptance. About the time it was discovered how to cut stereo records, the tape industry learned how to produce four track stereo tapes. This has doubled the playing time of tapes and has reduced the price to a competative basis versus records. Without doubt the best tapes produce better stereo music than do the best records. Tape will not become scratchy and worn as will records. It can be played indefinitely. The disadvantages are four. Even four track tape is a little more expensive. A first class machine to play back tape is a little more expensive. A first class machine to play back tape is a little more difficult to put on and take off, but has the advantage that it can play longer. And until recently the catalogue has been quite restricted. Within the last six months nearly all the big record companies have started producing tapes of many of their records; so there will be soon enough variety for anyone.

ART ODDITY OF THE WEEK

Mr. Jack Sheridan, writer for the Lubbock Avalanche Journal, passes on this little bit of news to his readers: "Incidently, this desk has a brochure for the new publication of the Dictionary Catalogue of the Library of the Museum of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City. This item is in limited edition, 24 volumes with 1,000 pages each. The prepublication price, including shipping charges, is $1,200. After December 31, the price is hiked to $1,500!"

Relationship 'Always Good'

The Canyon Public Schools and West Texas State always have had good relationships. The two educational units have worked closely on scores of projects in many fields.

"The relationship is very good," remarked J.E. Miller, high school principal. "Student teachers and observers from a number of educational classes as West Texas State work in our schools throughout the year. All department of the college work alongside us in various phases of our entire school program."

Politicians Can't Deny Progress in Canyon

"I ask you, Misters Kennedy and Nixon, what's all this noise about NO PROGRESS!"

Oh, well, guess in all their busy campaigning and TV debating they have overlooked County Superintendent Henson's report of 1910 to the people of Randall County on how much the schools progressed since 1902.

It might do everybody a little good to take a golden glimpse back fifty golden years and appreciate the following facts:

"In 1902 the average pay for county school teachers was $ 33.33 per month. This year (1960) the average pay is $56.25 per month.

$33.33 per month. This year (1910) the average pay is $56.25 per month.

"In 1902 one-half the teachers in the county held third grade certificates. This year (1910) there are no third grade certificates in the county. (Reporters note: Don't know whether this was progress or a reversal.)

"In 1902 the estimated value of all the school buildings was $6,250. In 1910 it is $21,300.

"In 1902 school only lasted for 78 days. Now it runs for 160!"

Besides, according to Supt. Henson, things looked rosy for the winter ahead, as a car of coal for the school just arrived.

So, we're making progress, people, and just don't let any Jack, Dick or Nikita tell you otherwise!

New Cafeteria Capable Of Feeding 1,000 Persons

Back in 1912, H,K, Yoe, then superintendent of Canyon schools, issued the following directive:

"The common drinking cup shall be abolished and each pupil required to have a cup of his own or at least one cup for each family attending school!"

If the consumption of water was a problem to Mr. Yoe, try to imagine his reaction if he could view the new cafeteria at Canyon High School.

"Nice isn't the word for it," bubbled Mrs. Dorothea Green, cafeteria manager, as she gestured to the four shining walls. "It is fabulous...I could talk about it for days."

The cafeteria, located conveniently near the centers of major activity at the school, needs to be seen to be appreciated. From the aqua and tan dining area, to the grey-white-and green kitchen, the cafeteria is as modern as tomorrow and as compact as a minute.

Designed to handle as many as a thousand diners, the new food center is available for private and public functions. In fact, several clubs have used the facilities already, and more are booking engagement.

Approximately 200 students eat at the cafeteria daily. At times, according to Mrs. Green upwards of 250 are served through the two approach lines. Cost per individual student is thirty-five cents per meal.

"We must," explained Mrs. Green, " meet Type A Lunch requirements. In other words, we must serve the daily requirements of vitamins necessary to qualify for the Texas School Lunch Program.

"Vitamin C must be provided each day. Vitamin A requirements must be fulfilled at least twice each week. Also, we must provide the protein rich foods such as meat and cheese."

In meeting the standards for the Texas School Lunch Program, the school receives a reimbursement on its milk and is allowed to purchase flour, butter and corn meal through government surpluses.

"I hope parents realize that much planning goes into this operation," said Mrs. Green. "Our personnel attends a workshop each year. State representatives visit and inspect our facilities and our work. Everything is planned with the student's health formost in mind."

School officials hope, in the very near future, to offer students a choice of food in the cafeteria. One serving line will have hamburgers, hotdogs, and barbecue sandwiches, while the other serving line will offer the regular daily menu as planned.

Also, a snack bar area is being readied and should be open shortly.

The food center at the new high school consists of three distinct areas: dining hall, kitchen, and storeroom.

The dining area is appointed with aqua chairs and sandelwood tables. Opposing light green walls and tan brick walls afford a pleasing contrast.

Center of activity in the kitchen are two large grills backed by five ovens and a broiler. Handy to the ovens is the pastry center. Even the hot rolls are homemade.

Near the serving lines are steel warming and cooling closets. As food, either hot or cold, is prepared, it may be placed in the appropriate closets until serving time.

Near one wall stands an electric potato peeler. Capacity is 50-pounds of spuds, whirled bare of peeling by a dishpan size sandpaper disc.

A giant mixer, with vegetable shredder attachment, and an electric slicer complete the major preparation appliances.

Along the north wall of the kitchen area the garbage disposal units and the dish washer.

For perishable foods, the cafeteria relies on a 9 by 12 walk-in storage locker. A zero locker area, approximately half the size of the locker, is provided.

At the rear, or west, of the cafeteria unit is the storage room. Here the truck load lots of staples are kept. Nearby is an office for the manager and a dressing room, with lockers, for the manager and three women who make up the staff.

Assisting Mrs. Green in running the cafeteria are Mrs. Lois Loudder, Mrs. Helen Fain and Mrs. Lula Myers. Four high school girls work at the serving lines during the lunch hour.

All personnel must have health certificates. The food unit is inspected once a monty by a county official and once a year by the State Health Inspector.

Library Association To Meet on WT Campus

Librarians from colleges, schools and public and county libraries of 44 Panhandle and South Plains counties are expected here at West Texas College Saturday for the 12th annual meeting of District I, Texas Library Association.

The district comprises counties north of and including those in a line from Dawson, Yoakum, Lynn, Terry and Garza counties.

The conference will open at 9 a.m. with registration in the Fine Arts Building and will include a morning general session and a luncheon meeting in the college cafeteria. A brief executive board meeting after the luncheon will conclude the conference.

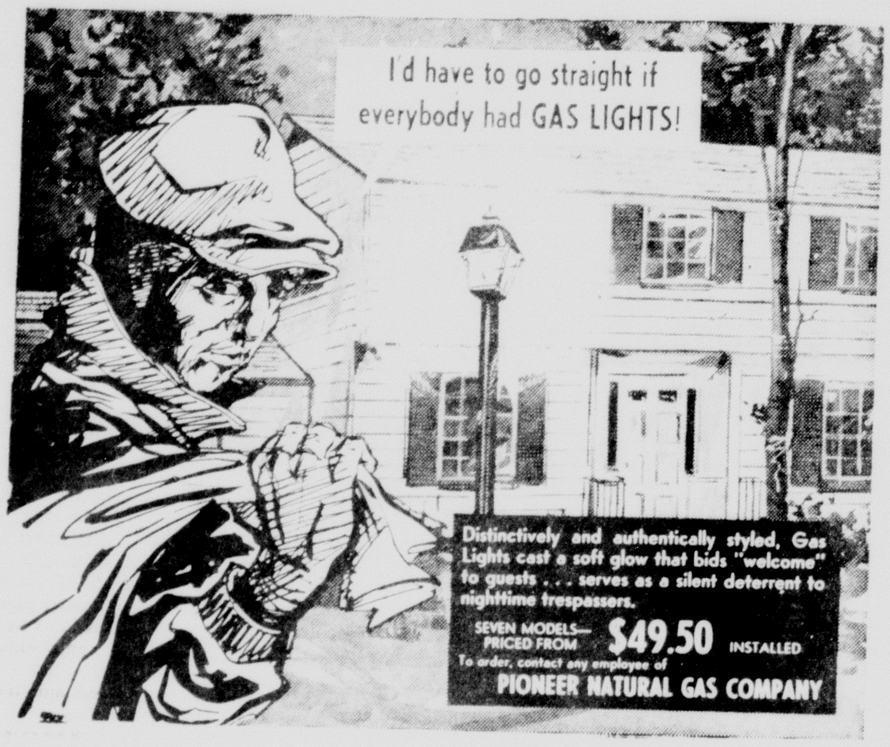

Theme of the conference is "The Panhandle-Plains--Fact and Fiction." Principle speakers will be Loula Grace Erdman, the Panhandle's leading novelist and an associate professor of English at WT, and C. Boone McClure, director of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Miss Erdman will talk at the morning session on "The Facts, Ma'am," and McClure will address the luncheon session on "Facts of Artifacts."

WT President James P. Cornette will welcome librarians, and presiding will be F.M. Blackburn, WT librarian, District I chairman. Mary Walden, librarian at Frank Phillips College in Borger, district vice-chairman, will preside at the luncheon.

At the beginning of the 1911-1912 school term, Canyon High School adopted the credit system, discarding the previously used grade system whereby, if a student failed two subjects, he repeated the entire year. Under the credit system, the student advanced in those subjects he passed, and repeated only those he failed. Classes also become known as first, second, third, and fourth year classes instead of freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior.

STUFFED EAGLE displayed in the lobby between the auditorium and gymnasium was acquired last year in South Texas. Looking at the new addition to Canyon High School are Pamela Richards, Bobby Bellah and Karen Brewster.

New Eagle Joins Ranks Of Canyon High School

From the rugged Big Bend country of far West Texas to the halls of Canyon High comes the new version of the school's symbol, the eagle. And, if future Canyon High athletic teams present half as fierce a front as the giant stuffed bird, then opponents will have natural cause to back up a pace or two.

Destined to be placed in honor in the auditorium-gymnasium lobby of Canyon High, the new symbol officially was presented to Supt. Joe Gibson, in a recent assembly. Presentation was made in behalf of the Student Council by Phillip Waters, president.

The tale of how the eagle came to Canyon High had its beginnings last winter and reads like a spine-tingling adventure out of True.

Art Brewer, director of West Texas State's Baptist Student Center, and a group of college students were in attendance at a meeting on the Miles Pierce ranch near Alpine. Pierce, owner of valuable Rambouillet show sheep, kept a wary eye on the sky for signs of eagles, mortal enemies of young lambs.

One day during the West Texans stay, an eagle was spotted. Immediately, the Eagle Hunting Service, in operation over 25 years, was notified. In record time, the famous eagle hunter, Casparis, featured in several national magazines, was on duty.

Brewer, fascinated by the happenings, was invited into the plane with Casparis for the eagle pursuit.

"Believe me," Brewer sighed during the story revelation, "I have never experienced anything more daring and exciting. The plane could never let the eagle get above it. We dived, circled, and zoomed around the big bird.

"Finally, after several tries, Casparis, using a 12-gage shotgun with high velocity shells, knocked the eagle out of the air. We landed , went to the site of the downed bird, and there finished the kill.

"He was hollering his head off, and defiant to the last," said Brewer. "When viewers see the bird, they are seeing its natural fighting spirit as expressed by the open mouth and the fearless eyes."

Brewer, remembering Canyon High's symbol, asked for the dead bird. It was placed in deep freeze at Alpine, then later transferred to a deep freeze plant in Happy where it was kept through the Spring.

Upon getting the eagle from Brewer, the Canyon High Student Council arranged to have it stuffed and mounted. Chuck Williamson, Amarillo student at West Texas State, prepared the bird and placed it, lifelike, on a knarled bough.

Known officially as a Mexican Eagle, the new school symbol boasts a wing spread of seven feet. When alive, it was capable of carrying off a lamb. Its plumage is black and white, except for a collar of black and tan around its neck.

Wacs Looking For College Graduates

Senior women and graduates are being sought by the army to fill vital executive positions as officers in the Women's Army Corps, according to SFC Bill Rucker, local army career counselor.

He states the Army is offering direct commissions as first or second lieutenants to those graduates who meet the mental, physical and character qualifications. Coeds in their senior year may apply for commission prior to graduation.

SFC Rucker states a WAC officer is available in Amarillo to provide information on the opportunities in the Army or college women. He may be contacted ay 213 West 7th St4eet, or by telephoning.

First state aid was given to Canyon schools in 1921, and was used for library books, new maps, drinking fountains, window shades, and some rearrangement of s etting in several rooms.

Lynda Redman Scores High on National Test

Lynda Kay Redman has been notified that she scored in the top 3 percent on a test taken last year.

The test is given by the National Merit Scholarship Association, and is given to high school juniors all over the United States.

A letter of recommendation was presented to Miss Redman during an assembly Monday at the high school. She is to present the letter to officials of her chosen college when she applies for a scholarship.

Lynda Kay plans to enroll in WTSC next fall. She is a senior at Canyon High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O.B. Redman.

According to C. Boone McClure and Clarence Thompson, school officials during their high school days furnished nothing for athletic teams but the playing field--and then the students had to level the ground if they wanted a better field.

70 Boys Enrolled In Agriculture Classes

Approximately ten acres of land located on the south side of the Canyon High campus are being utilized by the Agriculture Department for feeder pens. Although only 23 feeder pigs are housed there now, this number will be raised to approximately 50 very soon. In addition, facilities for calf and lamb feeding will be added later.

"All of the work on this project," commented agriculture instructor Ed Dwyer, " has been done by boys in ag and FFA activities."

Dwyer, along with Leon Bagwell, currently are involved in the instruction of 70 boys studying agriculture in Canyon High School. Operating from new quarters, boasting 4,000 square feet of space, the two teachers have many fine pieces of equipment with which to work.

"Most of our equipment is on hand," Dwyer explained. "However, some is still on order, particularly in the area of hand tools, but we expect our supply to increase shortly."

Housed in the east end of the building from the Indrust the building from the Indrustrial Arts, and away from the regular classroom center, the Agriculture Department consists of a classroom, office, storage room and a large shop-classroom area.

"The big area of our instruction is in leadership training," Long explained. "Livestock and Crops comes in for much attention, also," Livestock and crop study includes many phases, such as breeds of animals, feeding, diseases, type of crop to grow, carcass grades, marketing and farm machines.

Judging activities will come into sharp focus this year, with teams planned for 12 areas of agricultural activity. Slated for work this fall will be teams of leadership competition in junior and senior chapter conducting, junior and senior farm skill demonstrations, radio broadcasting and in FFA quiz. These contests are conducted through the State level.

During the spring, attention will be shifted to judging teams in livestock, dairy cattle, poultry, crops, meats, dairy products, grass and land. Six of these judging events lead into national competition.

"Teams are selected on the basis on what boys want to try," said Dwyer. "After that is determined, then members are picked from the most proficient in that field."

Tools with which the agricultural students are equipped at Canyon High include four electric arc welders, an acetelyn welder, a table saw, two electric hand saws, three grinders, three electric hand drills, a drill press, plus various hand tools.

Although membership in FFA is not compulsory of a student taking agriculture, 100 per cent are enrolled. The main source of funds for the FFA activities come from the maintaining and renting of 13 pieces of Soil Conservation equipment. Aside from the finances derived, this activity affords training in managements and maintenance.

"Our chief aim in teaching agriculture today is to establish boys in agriculture pursuits," Dwyer outlined. "It used to be that the main purpose was to train for farming. However, the decrease in farms, plus the increase in other agricultural areas, changed the pattern."

Dwyer and Bagwell both qualify for Smith-Hughes certificates. Dwyer received his training at Texas Tech. Bagwell studied at Sam Houston State College. Both instructors are doing advanced work at West Texas State.

SCENE IN principal's office at Canyon High School includes this typical one involving Clark de Schweinitz, Peggy Hale, Ronny Harris, and Judy Wilson. Students must get absentee slips and tardy permits from the principal's office, as well as file notice of club meetings and other announcements. The office is manned by student help.

Bruce Wilson served as president of the newly-activated National Honor Society in 1949.

WITH A determined set of her jaw, Pauline Taylor prepares to take another portion from a salt block that she is sculpting in art I. The sculpture work is being done under the direction of Mrs. Charlotte Brantley and is a study in primitive carving.

Odds and ends which a person should notice while exploring the new Canyon High School: chalk and tack boards, bulletin boards, trophy cases, display cases, flag pole, finished court yard with benches, planters, sliding glass doors, and plastic skylights.

Things are looking up at Canyon High! Acoustical ceilings are in all of the rooms. Ceilings in the rest rooms, kitchen and storage rooms are of plaster. Exposed painted structures are overhead in the shops.

First Year for Full-time Counselor at High School

"You will never be content or happy unless you find the way to work in some useful occupation-whatever it may be. If your ambition is to be idle, you are doomed to inevitable failure."

Suggested direction, as promoted in this quote from Henry Ford, points out only one phase of guidance services, a new program offered to Canyon High students for the first time. Directing this many-pronged activity is Larry Roberts, who received his training at Henderson State College in Arkansas and at West Texas State College.

"For example," said Roberts, in response to a question pertaining to the scope of his duties, "I am meeting with several class groups today discussing, and using film strips, 'Your High School Record Is Important.'"

"This is a means of impressing on the student the fact that what he intends to be, what he intends to accomplish, is determined to a great extent on the foundation he lays right now. Study habits, attitude, ability to understand and evaluate, recognition and enhancement of talents, these are all important aspects of the student-to-mature-and-responsible-adult transition."

Guidance and counseling are not newcomers to the field of education. Larger schools have offered the services for a number of years. However, not until the past few years, has it been possible for smaller schools to afford the activity.

In 1958 the National Defense Education Act came into being, designed to aid in the promotion of guidance services and in the studies of science and mathematics. Half the salary of a counselor, as in Robert's case, is paid by the Texas Education Agency. Additional funds provide some of the tools with which he works.

Guidance services are a part of the over-all school program and are designed to assist in the school's primary objective, that of helping young people prepare themselves for useful adult citizenship.

"I work with groups of students, with individuals, and with teachers," Robert's explained while exhibiting an occupational information file. Group counseling mainly is covered through orientations. Individual counseling is more involved and necessitates the most careful handling.

"With the individual," Roberts explained, "I can, through discussions and testing, help him plan his educational and occupational future, help him understand his abilities and his opportunities, direct him in adjusting to a school situation in order to make the most of it."

Through Roberts' office, teachers have access to student's records, including test results. In turn, teachers use this information to better understand and help pupils. A variety of information, in brochure, catalog and other forms, is available for teacher use.

Although the work of Canyon's counselor involves some work with all grades, it is in the high school level that most of his attention is focused.

All ninth grade students are given the Kuder Preference Record testing. This is an interest inventory type. The Kuder is repeated in the eleventh grade.

"The reason for the Kuder repeat," explained Roberts is to compensate for the two-year growing up period, which at that span is particularly significant."

Twelfth grade students, or seniors, receive sequential tests of educational progress.

In addition, special testing is available upon request or given when certain indications suggest. Included among the special testing are college entrance and scholarship requests.

"So far personal problem counseling has not been involved to any great extent in my activity here at Canyon High," Roberts said, "However, I am fully qualified and trained in that area, also, and I believe that as the students learn more about this program, then my abilities in that line will be more used."

Roberts is married and has a daughter in the fourth and a boy in the second grade.

School report in 1911: Mr. Yoe, superintendent, reports that he notices in the high school a lack of knowledge of the old books, such as Arabian Knights.

ADVISING STUDENTS on college requirements is only one phase of the counseling program headed by Lawrence Roberts, right. Here, he advises Sue Huyck on entry requirements at West Texas State College. This is the first year Canyon High has had a full-time counselor.

Planning, Cooperation Produce Best High School Plant Available

Although the entire plant of Canyon High School, including property, furniture and architect's fees, cost over one million dollars, careful planning and cooperation have produced the maximum product.

Some preliminary construction aims were pruned, in order that certain valuable features could be incorporated into the now finished structure. One important item allowed through this method was the air-conditioning, a prominent first in High Plains school construction.

Although it would be impossible to list all the ways in which cost was conserved, some deserve recognition:

A rectangular plan was used, thus reducing exterior walls.

Four separate buildings were used to permit fast construction with a minimum amount of equipment required. No building was dependent an another for construction purposes.

All details were kept clean and simple for ease in construction.

All costly details and materials were held to a minimum or eliminated.

All items were duplicated as much as possible to minimize jig and set up charges by suppliers.

Factory finished items were used as much as possible, thus eliminating costly hand labor and construction time.

In areas requiring high walls, wall heights were reduced by the use of arches.

At the time bids were taken for this project, contractors seemed to have been seeking work; therefore, all bids from both contractors and sub-contractors were extremely competitive.

Canyon School Buses Total 1,296 Miles in Day's Round

An excerpt from a newspaper report in 1910 possibly depicts the extent of transportation problems confronting an early-day school superintendent in Canyon:

"The fifth grade boys are greatly indebted to Mr. Slover for the loan of his wagon and mules to haul sand for their sand table."

However, individual students had transportation problems. Most of these were solved by the horse and buggy method or by just plain walking.

Records show the first time the Canyon Independent School District became involved in student transport was in 1923 when two school trucks were purchased.

Today, the school district has an investment of $75,000 in transportation alone. Fifteen regular school buses, plus two shuttle buses are involved in solving the problem of carrying students.

More than one-third of the students attending Canyon schools are brought from and delivered to their homes by buses. The number is 595.

Bus drivers register 1,296.4 miles of driving each day. The longest daily round-trip routes are of 121.4 miles to the northwest part of the county, and of 118 miles to the Stone community.

Bus sheds are located in back of Canyon Junior High where the major part of loading is conducted. Elementary students are picked up and brought to this loading area, then dispatched to their respective route buses.

As much bus repair as possible is handled by the school. A shop located near the loading area, is maintained by E.E. Perkins.

Many of the bus drivers are college students. However, all must pass close reference inspections and driver training tests. From time to time the drivers attend training sessions.

Driving buses for the Canyon schools this year are: Eddie Sparkman, Jimmy Plain, Orville Ladehoff, Jim Powell, Auther Turner, Bob Phillips, Lavon Adams, Jerry Keen.

Louis Camp, Hubert Green, Gene Stocker, E.E. Perkins, Jerome Edwards, Bill Adams, Mike Adams, Bill Lightsey and James Reynolds.

Purple Cow? No! Just a Bus

Canyon's first schoolbuses were probably the talk of the area for awhile--they were bluish purple in color.

When the school district purchased the two buses from Thompson's Hardware in 1923, school board members insisted that the International buses will be purple in color with white lettering.

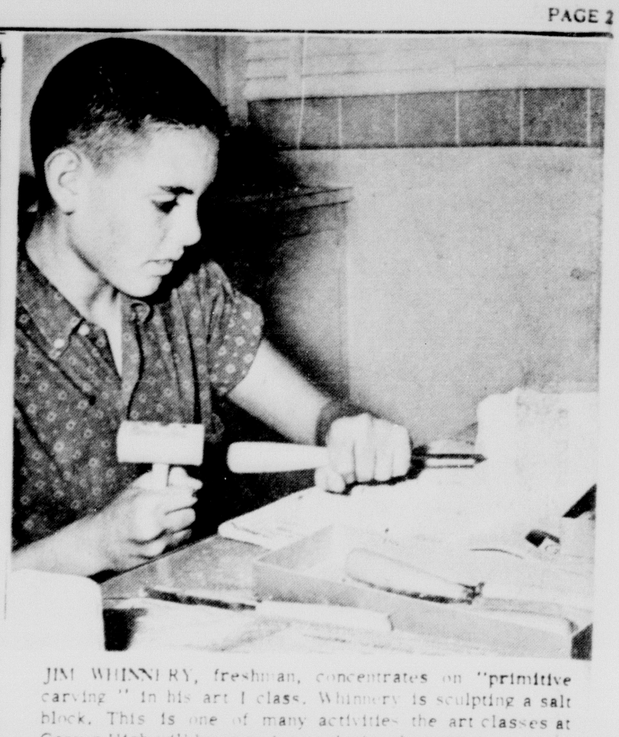

After much discussion and searching, the buses became bluish-purple, which was simply the best that the bus company could do!!

Before making the purchase, a demonstrator bus was sent to Canyon. Clarence Thompson drove the bus on a trial run on the rough roads of the area. With him were several members of the school board and several boys who were in town at the moment.

Boone McClure remembers that entrance to the bus was at the rear, and one climbed several steps to enter. Two-fold purpose of the trial run was to see if the steps on the back would drag at any place on the roads, and to see how much grading on the roads must be done before buses could be run in the area.

MARILYN ROBERTS browses in the library in Canyon High School. The library contains reference works, commentaries, and selections for reading outside the classroom.

JIM WHINNERY, freshman, concentrates on "primitive carving" in his art I class. Whinnery is sculpting a salt block. This is one of many activities the art classes at Canyon High will be carrying on during the year.

On the walls of the new Canyon High School you will find painted plaster in all rooms. Exposed face brick has been employed in each classroom. Rest rooms, corridors, cafeteria and kitchen have ceramic tile wainscoatings. In the shops and in the gymnasium, the walls are of painted masonry. Special accoustical treatments grace the walls in the band and choir rooms and in the auditorium.

Enrollment in Canyon High School in 1946 was 173 students.

Mrs. Sanders Breaks Arm

Mrs. Dan Sanders' arm was broken Thursday night when she fell.

Mrs. Sanders tripped and fell onto the pavement as she was leaving the high school bonfire.

Her arm was broken in the elbow.

A teacher in Canyon High School, Mrs. Sanders was able to resume teaching government and history Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss L. Stroup, Canyon, girl born October 12

Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Dwyer, Canyon, boy born October 13

Mr. and Mrs. D.W. Langston, Happy, boy born on October 14

It was noted in The Eagle's Tale (high school publication appearing weekly in The Canyon News) in March of 1940, that 73 other Texas high schools used the eagle mascot. Canyon's colors of purple and white were not as commonly used among high schools.

Industrial Arts Dream Come True After 21 Years for S.P. Burgess

SIDNEY BURGESS looks on while two of his students, Terry Milligan and Jess Sheets plane a board on the electric planer. In the background Terry Funk looks on.

"I've wanted something like this for 21 years," said Sidney Burgess, as he started a tour through the Industrial Arts section of the new Canyon High School. "It was worth waiting for."

Burgess, who is starting his 21st year in the industrial arts teaching field, 15 of which have been with the Canyon school system, beamed as he gazed around at the facilities with which he now works.

The industrial arts area covers one-half or 4,000 square feet, in one building of the new plant. Agriculture occupies a like amount of space in the building. Located at the south side of the campus, with a magnificent view sloping toward South Creek, the class and shop section seems ideally placed.

"This is the most economically built structure here," explained Burgess. "Construction cost was only $8 a square foot. In the industrial arts area we have six rooms: classroom, paint finishing room, office, shop, storeroom and restroom.

Pointing to a lengthy window in the west, Burgess added, "This is designed for expansion in that direction, if the need should arise."

The classroom, or planning room, is furnished with twenty drawing tables. These tables, with formica tops and ample drawer space, were built during the summer by Burgess. In addition, Burgess built 178 adjustable shelves, or 100 running feet, of seven-foot high shelving for the library.

Specially planned between the classroom and shop is Burgess' office. "From here," Burgess pointed out, "I can watch all areas, including the finish paint room across the hall."

At present the finish paint room is not ready for use. However, as soon as wash basins are installed, it will be ready for occupancy.

The spacious shop is efficiently arranged, with safety and convenience among the large machinery a primary factor. One area contains five large working tables. Below each table are metal lockers. Each table is equipped with four rapid-action vises.

Nine pieces of heavy power machinery are available for use: a tool grinder, shaper, thickness planer (the boys do their own planing of rough lumber), a bandsaw, jointer, circular-saw and two wood lathes. Ordered, and expected very soon, is a jigsaw.

In the way of portable equipment for the shop, Burgess has an electric sander, a router, and several electric drills.

At the present time, hand tools are on a temporary wall rack. However, the students are in the process of building a permanent tool cabinet to go along the north wall.

"We have bought good brand hand tools," Burgess said, as he tapped his palm with a shiny new hammer. "Take this hammer, for example. This handle is fiber glass. If it is broken, the handle will be replaced."

In all, Burgess estimates the industrial arts area is furnished with approximately $8,000 worth of equipment

Four-foot high wall plugs line the sides of five-foot intervals underneath the windows. Other than the natural lighting from the windows and two skylights, the shop area has four rows of fluorescents. "This is the best lighted shop area anywhere," the instructor explained.

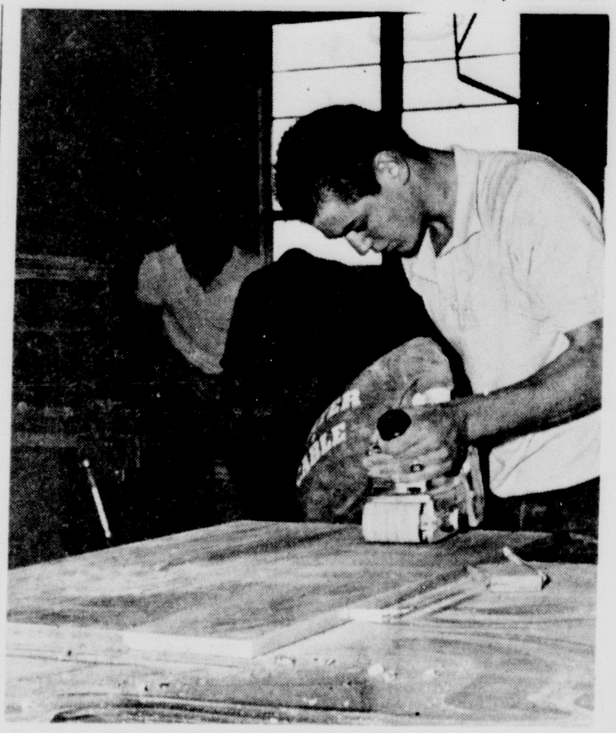

Ceilings are acoustically tiled and an intercom system has been installed. Although the building is not air-conditioned, it has central heating. However, ventilation will not be a problem in the shop since sliding doors can be opened for outside air.

"We buy the lumber and then sell it to the boys," Burgess said, as he exhibited the storeroom. "All of our wood supplies and the boys' projects are kept in here."

At present there are 80 high school boys taking industrial arts. It is offered to 35 in the junior high. High school classes are divided into one planning class and four woodworking classes.

Burgess, in his ninth year of instruction at Canyon High, received his bachelor's degree from West Texas State in 1940, and received his Master's from Colorado State in 1948.

After winning the top exhibit award of the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo, representative of Canyon High School's Future Farmers of America appeared on KGNC-TV in 1955.

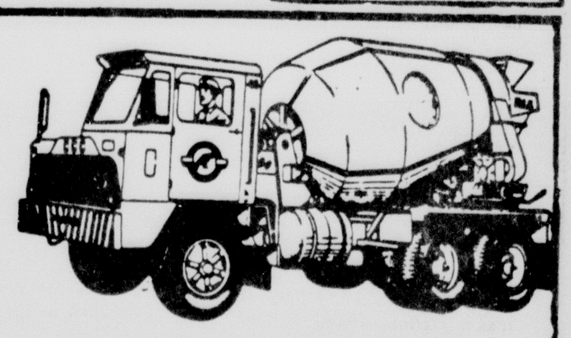

RONNY BROCK is shown above sanding on a coffee table top in an industrial arts class. Modern electric sander takes most of the work out of the job.

'Theatre Kaleidoscope' To Be Workshop Theme

"Theatre Kaleidoscope" will be the theme of the second annual drama workshop Saturday at West Texas State College for high school students of the Panhandle area.

The workshop, sponsored by Buffalo Masquers, WT drama club, is expected to attract several hundred thespians and directors for practical staging and costume demonstrations and assistance in theater production.

Registration in the Fine Arts Building is scheduled for 9 a.m., and a general session will start at 9:50, when Dr. Crannell Tolliver, head of the WT speech department, will give a welcome.

Talks on "The Kaleidoscope of the Theatre" and "Historical Costume Kaleidoscope" will be made by William A. Moore and Robert L. Antrim, director and technical director of the Branding Iron Theatre. A costume "style show" will be given with Antrim assisted by Erin Wertenberger, WT sophomore from Hereford.

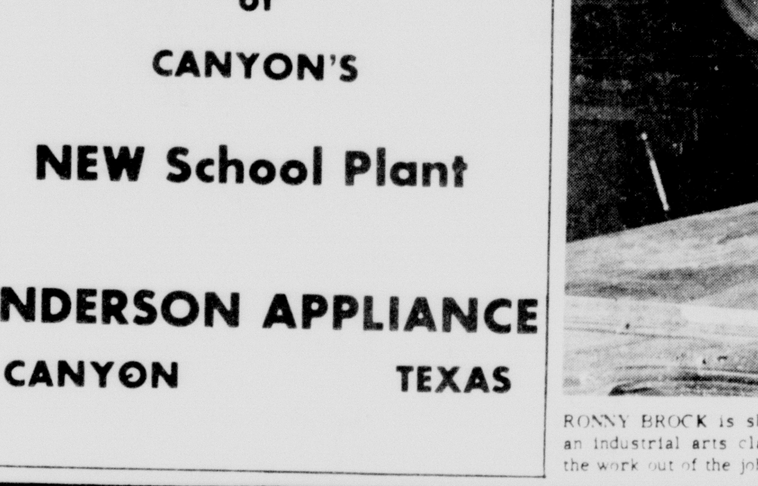

Group demonstrations on make-up, stage movement, presented by the Gene Galle Dance Studio, will conclude the morning program. Lunch will be served at the Canyon High School cafeteria.

Workshop members will be guests at a matinee performance at 2 p.m. in the BIT of Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night."

Students at Canyon High School are provided with spacious metal lockers. Teachers each have a metal cabinet. In the food lab there are metal cabinets with formica tops.
